IRISH FATE DISCUSSED BY WILSON

PRESIDENT MAKES PUBLIC STATEMENT ON LEAGUE AND HOME RULE.

REPLIES TO QUERY OF LABOR BODY

Claims For Self-Determination Eligible To Come Before Forum Of Nations.

Union and Labor Party Agreement Probable

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
The Board President Wilson's Special Sept. 17.—Setting forth public policy for the first time his interpretation of the league of nations covenant as it affects Ireland, President Wilson in a statement today said that the league would constitute a forum before which would be brought all claims for self-determination which are likely to affect the peace of the world.

The covenant would not bind the United States to assist in putting down a rebellion in any foreign country, he asserted, "nor would it limit the power of this country to recognize the independence of any people who seek to secure freedom." He said Ireland's case was not heard at Versailles because it did not come within the jurisdiction of the peace conference.

The president's statement was in reply to a series of questions sent to him by the San Francisco labor council. It is understood that within a few days he will reply similarly to questions put by other labor bodies regarding shantying and the representation of the British dominions in the league assembly.

Speaks on Self-Rule.
Replying directly to a question as to his attitude toward self-determination for Ireland, Mr. Wilson said his position was expressed in Article II of the covenant, under which it is declared that no member can call the attention of the league to any circumstance whatever affecting international relations which tends to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends.

The president's statement does the nation obligate itself to assist in putting down a rebellion of its subjects or conquered peoples?
ANSWER.—It does not, can this nation independently recognize a government whose people seek to achieve, or have achieved, their independence from a member of the league.

Act Not Affected by League.
ANSWER.—The independent action of the government of the United States in a matter of this kind is in no way limited or affected by the covenant of the league of nations. The subject nations or peoples only that are mentioned in the peace treaty entitled to the right of self-determination, or does the league possess the right to accord a similar privilege to other subject nations or peoples?

ANSWER.—It was not possible for the peace conference to act with regard to the self-determination of any territories except those which had belonged to the defeated empires. Ireland has set up for the first time, in Article II, a forum to which all claims of self-determination are likely to be brought for the good understanding between nations upon which the peace of the world depends can be brought.

Ireland Case Not Under League.
ANSWER.—The case of Ireland was not heard at the peace conference because the peace conference had no jurisdiction over any question of that sort which did not affect territories which belonged to the defeated empires. My position on the subject of self-determination for Ireland is expressed in Article II of the covenant in which I may say I was particularly interested, because it seemed to me necessary for the peace and freedom of the world that a forum should be created to which all peoples could bring any matter which was likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world.

Seven rural schools in Rock county have not begun work because the school board members have not been able to obtain teachers. Two of these schools may have their pupils transported. Faust announced today.

"People living near any of the grade schools in the city who wish to cooperate in two adjoining rooms for kindergarten should call at the high school," said Mr. Faust.

The rooms will only be in use for half a day. If the connecting rooms are large enough they can easily be made to accommodate the kindergarten children. Miss Robbins, Ft. How to Handle the Ball

By A. A. Stagg

Athletic Director, The University of Chicago

I wonder how many of you realize the number of football games lost through fumbles? Often they result directly in touch-downs, but frequently, when they do not bring the winning score, they decide what is known as the "break of the game," and thus determine victory.

No boy relishes the disgrace of a fumble. Learn therefore to handle the ball. Practice till you are sure you can handle it in every department of the game.

Learn to handle the ball, no matter what position you play. Some time or other you will have to do it. The boys chosen to fill the more spectacular positions have usually qualified for them by long practice.

Watch the ball, squeeze the ball, whenever you have the chance.

As a quarterback, practice till you never make a fumble in receiving from center, or in passing to the runner. Whether he is a back or a line man.

An backs the runner must wrap both arms about the ball to prevent it from being torn from him.

Free running backs should have free running practice. One hand may be used for warding off the tackler, one end of the ball should be tucked snugly into the crotch of the arm and shoulder and held there by strong pressure from the forearm and hand.

Many games are lost by muffed punts. Practice long and hard to make yourself "safe and sure" in catching. Catch the ball in a pocket formed by the hands with the soles of the feet below the breast bone.

Forward pass play is now a part of the strategy of the game. Learn to throw the ball without gripping it, using the lace to help spiral it. Practice something with a slippery ball. Also learn to catch a forward pass in the hands like a baseball. It will come in handy frequently.

Finally, remember the maxim, "Squeeze the Ball."

E. A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the state board of education, left for Milwaukee Wednesday and will go direct to Racine for a consultation with Episcopal church authorities with reference to gaining control of college buildings.

"We understand the college buildings as they stand today, with their dormitories, etc., will accommodate over a hundred students," said Mr. Fitzpatrick. "Our plan at present is to secure the use of the buildings and grounds from the Episcopal church, and establish a junior college that is where the first two years of college work can be taught. We may also establish a preparatory school for those students who have not had a high school education but who have completed the eighth grade, and because of the war are not able to enroll in a high school with much younger pupils."

Racine college, which closed indefinitely this year after having occupied a foremost place among Episcopal schools of the United States for nearly 60 years, boasts of a unique history.

6 HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS TAKE AGRICULTURE

There are six girls enrolled in the agricultural classes at the high school. Four of these are seniors and the other two are juniors. This is the first time that girls have taken agriculture in high school.

Scott, instructor of agriculture, announces that the total number of agricultural pupils is 54, they being divided as follows: 22 freshmen, 18 sophomores, 3 juniors, and 11 seniors.

The Smith Hughes federal law has an effect on the teaching of agriculture in the local high school. This law makes it necessary to have a certain amount of projects, or home work, for each pupil. In this study, the projects give about half of the credit for the courses. The Smith Hughes law allows $300 yearly to the high school for the teaching of agriculture.

The projects for this year are taken as follows: three baby beef; seven, poultry; one, sheep; eight, milk; one, 10 acres of wheat; and three, milk records.

A Hike Contest

By Louise Freer

Director of Physical Training for Women, The University of Illinois.

How many of you have been in a hike race? Those of you who have will agree that it is exciting sport for Saturday contestants in two teams.

The contest consists in two teams hiking to a place which can be reached by two routes. Each team starts on a different route, returning to the starting place at the same time. The team which is first to get back to the starting place is the winner.

If you have a girls' athletic association in your school, you can have two teams of association members; or two clubs or basketball teams can compete. It can be just as exciting if the teams are chosen from your particular group of friends.

Keep these rules well in mind:

1. The teams must start from the same place at the same time. Your captains must carry watches and be sure they have the same time. If the hike is a long one, the captain being required to take fifteen minutes or more for rest along the way.

2. Every girl must keep to a walking pace. The captain being required to set a good, steady pace. (Remember that a real hiker wears low-heeled, broad-toed shoes and comfortable clothing.)

The teams will, of course, meet on the route not yet covered by the other team. This is where you take "time out" for a picnic in the road-side, or in a nearby field or wood.

After lunch and games you are ready to continue the race. The team which is first to get back to the starting place will wait for the other team.

If the members of the team are Athletic Association girls, you can score athletic points; or you can have an agreement whereby the defeated team will have to give a party or picnic to the winners.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

SPEAKING OF UNREST.

Somebody has said that there is considerable unrest in this country and we are beginning to believe it.

We know there is considerable unrest out at our country estate which we have playfully named Mosquito Manor. We also know who is doing the unresting.

Owing to an influx of relatives we have been spending our nights in an old-fashioned hammock. The contented unrest in its most violent and persistent form. A hammock will remain perfectly still and docile all day long, but as soon as you get into it to spend the night it begins to wiggle and sway and jazz and shimmy, all of its own accord. Then one end of it will remain stationary while the other end turns completely over, giving you a peculiar corkscrew effect which is out of place in these prohibition times.

One night, while in the hammock, I was wiggled both arms and both feet through the hammock. We have wrestled with this hammock every night until 2 or 3 o'clock and then we have slept peacefully and soundly, hanging from the thing somehow face downward. The wife has to come out in the morning and shake the hammock. The more we have tried to wiggle out of it, the more entangled we have become. So we wear it to breakfast. After breakfast we have shaved both three times, when we had to arrive early, but it has been an embarrassing procedure because it is difficult to get a right fitting business suit on over a pair of pajamas and a hammock.

If anybody asks you if there is any unrest in this country, you can tell them that there will be until the relative season is over.

What will become of the tax burden when all of the Ultimate Consumers have started to death?

Adv. in New York morning paper: REPAIR PRICES in the store and basement if you purchase the building. Sale price reasonable. West 17th street.

We are glad to note by the public prints that food prices are coming down. Now all we have got to do is to persuade our grocer and butcher to read the newspapers.

Miss Elsie Janis has conceived the idea of having all American women get their hair cut by General Pershing. Now, we like General Pershing and he's aces with us and we recognize the fact that he helped win one of the worst wars we have had in five years—BUT—if the lady we are married to is going to telegraph her love to any gentleman while we are still alive and have our health and salary envelope, that gentleman is going to be the writer of these weak and puny lines. We admire Elsie, we admire her press agent and we are strong for Java J., but there are a lot of hardworking husbands who need those telegrams full of love, even if they are sent "collect."

And now that the newspapers are speaking of "grooming" political candidates, the picture of grooming conjures up an old sight. It shows a man in short running pants, being sponged off by a trainer, while others are rubbing him down with towels.

Vincent Collins has lapped the following sign on East Forty-second street, Manhattan: "Fresh Touch Rods, Made from Fresh Berles."

419 EGGS FROM 20 MOULTING HENS

Mr. Dougherty Got This Result in One Month. This is the First Time.

"I tried Don Sung and the results were far past my expectations. I got 419 eggs in 30 days from 20 hens while moulting. I think this is wonderful. I bought 25 dozen eggs from Don Sung (about 100) in October and wrote the above letter in November. Figure his profit on 25 dozen eggs from hens that formerly laid little or nothing."

This may sound too good to be true, but it costs nothing to find out. We'll make you the same offer we made him.

Give your hens Don Sung and watch them work directly on the egg-laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather, helps her through the moult, and starts her laying.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs you want, how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer, or send 50 cents for a package by mail prepaid. Bureau of Poultry, 210 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

Workmen Toil at High Speed to Rush Samson Foundry to Completion by First of Year

Janesville, a city of from 50,000 to 60,000 people in 1925. That prediction has been freely made during the past few months and those who are somewhat skeptical could pay a visit to the Samson area. In Spring Brook where the construction work is under way. One look at the activity in that section of the city would convince anyone that Janesville is destined to be one of Wisconsin's leading cities in the next few years.

Never before has such activity been noted. There are more men being employed on the new foundry being erected by the Samson Tractor company than have been employed at building in Janesville in the past 10 years.

Great progress is being made on the new foundry and according to the men in charge of the work, the building will be completed and ready for occupancy by the first of the year. Over 300 men are engaged in erecting the plant and everything possible is being done to rush it to completion.

Realizing the necessity of having a railroad sidetrack near the foundry, the workmen have been started on building a new road which will be used entirely to extend a sidetrack from the main line of the Chicago and North Western railroad. The track will branch off on Eastern avenue just north of Cherry street and will enter the foundry on the north side.

WILL CITY SUPPORT SUNDAY FOOTBALL?

Is Janesville large enough to support a semi-pro football team to play Sunday football?

This question arises again with the receipt of several challenges from leading teams in this section, asking for games to be played either in Janesville or in their own cities. Green Bay, Freeport, and Rock Island all want games.

The best semi-pro football team in the middle west, is the host of the Rock Island Independents who desire to get in touch with a team that might be able to defeat them. This eleven has a record of not being scored on last season and of being the only semi-pro team to carry through a schedule.

It is possible that someone may see his way clear to backing a semi-pro outfit here this fall. The Gazette will be glad to receive the views of iron fans on the question of whether or not a team worthy of support could be organized here.

A Phoebe of old high school stars and several college men around who are anxious to play and there is presumably a wealth of material to pick and choose from. The Samson Tractor plant, "Notion" Dalton will soon be back, and Edler and Walter might also be secured. What are your views? It is hoped that the sports editor of the Gazette.

W. C. T. U. TO OBSERVE FRANCES WILLARD DAY

W. C. T. U. plans for helping the schools in the observance of Frances Willard day, Sept. 28, were made at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Horwood, 221 North Palm street, yesterday afternoon. The committee appointed to take charge of the observance of the day, the Mesdames O. D. Bates, H. M. Palmer, John Nichols, C. E. Ewing, and Miss Lou Granger.

The members of the union who attended the Rock County W. C. T. U. convention in Evansville recently, gave reports of the meetings. During the routing of the reports of the convention the other members were busy busying hems in curtains for the Y. M. C. A.

Other usual reports were read and accepted. A letter from one of the charter members, Mrs. S. S. Grove, Chicago, was read. An invitation was extended to the members to hold a meeting in the church at Hanover. Mrs. O. W. Athon, vice-president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. M. D. Ewing, secretary, presided at the meeting. Twenty-one were present. Three new names were voted for membership and their dues paid. The union feels confident of its future growth and a successful year's work.

The next meeting will be held at the Congregational church, Oct. 2. The topic to be taken up is "Community Service." A. C. Frost, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will be the leader. Mrs. Ewing, president, will have charge of the business and devotional services.

WHY WHO in the Dax News

SENATOR WARREN. Gen. Warren has been back some tales of pretty hard sailing to tell his family, but he hasn't any of greater adventures than his own father-in-law, Senator Warren of Wyoming, can tell.

Senator Warren began life on a farm in Hinsdale, Mass. Education came to him only after a hard struggle. He went to school five long weeks, worked 16 hours on Saturdays to pay for his board and trudged many miles over the hill roads to school.

Warren even borrowed money to purchase a suit of clothes that he might look presentable in school. When he came back to school for 10 weeks a day to get back the money to pay back what he had borrowed.

After the war he became a successful farmer in Massachusetts. But the east lacked adventure for Farmer Warren, so he went to Wyoming, where he had great success in the stock raising business.

He has been in the United States senate continuously since 1890. Before that he was a member of the Wyoming legislature, treasurer of Wyoming, and mayor of Cheyenne.

Warren was the first governor of Wyoming after it became a state.

When Captain Brave, the doctor and Mrs. Satter came out of the hospital, they, Jack, Jane, Ladydeer and Booh left the plane with the hospital attendants and went to one of the big tourist hotels to arrange for rooms. It was the first time during their trip that the children had stayed in a real big hotel, so they knew they would have a good time. They also being kind to Ruth by helping her pass the long hours at the hospital.

The children weren't allowed to visit Ruth for two or three days. Ladydeer told them that the doctors at the hospital had to perform an operation on the little girl so that she might get well again. If you don't know what an operation is I'm afraid you'll have to ask mother or father to tell you. They'll know that it was a pretty serious operation. Ruth and that Mrs. Satter had a good reason to look awfully sad until it was all over and the doctors said that Ruth was going to be all right and would soon be well and able to play around.

When the nurses finally said that Ruth was all right and could see Ruth, Jack and Jane, with Ladydeer, went to the hospital and for half an hour the little folks talked just as fast as they could. Jack and Jane had many things to tell Ruth. Lucerne and Ruth told them how it seemed to be "cooped up" in a hospital with many sick folks in other rooms. The nurses had told her many of the cutest stories you can imagine and she told them to Jack and Jane.

Worked days about a little blind boy who had come to the hospital just a few weeks before Ruth came. He hadn't been able to see since he was born. The nurses had told her when he came to the hospital. You'll have to figure out how many years he had been blind. The famous doctor said he was blind. He had wonderful instruments, fixed his eyes so that in a couple of weeks he could notice great big things between him and the doctor and then when he left the hospital he knew that as soon as his eyes got real strong he would be able to see everything and even read.

PUBLICATION OF JOURNAL CEASES AFTER 31 YEARS

Publication of Janesville's leading weekly newspaper, The Journal, has been discontinued permanently by H. W. Frick, editor and publisher, who announces that the entire facilities of his plant at 141 East Washington street will be turned over exclusively to job printing in the future. Additional equipment including an automatic job press will be installed shortly to care for increased business.

Although regular weekly publication has been abandoned and all annually to be distributed throughout the city. These will probably be issued as Thanksgiving, Christmas and Fourth of July numbers.

The suspension of the publication of The Journal comes after 31 years of existence. The paper was established as a German publication by Mr. Frick's father and has been owned and exclusively by him since that time. During the war it was changed from a German paper to an English weekly independent.

SEWERAGE WORK IN CITY BEING RUSHED

Janesville is going to have between 15 and 20 miles of improved streets during the next two years according to an announcement made today by Mayor F. E. Welsh.

"I am more than anxious to have the work started as soon as possible and when it gets started the work will be pushed until Janesville ranks among the leading cities of Wisconsin for good streets," Mayor Welsh said.

Early last spring the members of the city council voted to improve many streets with asphalt or concrete. It was not known at that time what difficulties would be experienced in getting the underground work finished.

Eids were asked for early this year for the sewerage work and contracts were awarded. Then the first obstacles presented themselves and for many weeks it was believed that a great deal of the sewerage work would be unfinished this year.

Mayor Welsh took personal charge of the work and after talking with G. W. Mulholland, Rockford, succeeded in getting the sewerage work started. Mr. Mulholland has been in active charge of the work for many weeks and great progress is being made.

"Every effort possible will be made to have some of the improved streets built this year," Mayor Welsh said. "Janesville is badly in need of more improved streets and it is the desire of every member of the council that the work started at the earliest possible moment."

A Story With A Moral

A young man came in our store the other day—didn't even sit down—to say:

"I want a certain shoe—I don't suppose you have it. They told me I couldn't get it anywhere in town—and I guess they're right. I think I've been everywhere."

He described the shoe—a new pattern he had just seen in the east. In 5 minutes he had a fit in this shoe.

FOR AMERICA FIRST.

Senator Lenroot at the state fair last week made a favorable report to the people of the state on his stand in regard to the league of nations. It was business-like and encouraged his constituents in the belief that Wisconsin would be well represented in the fight to maintain American standards despite the president's efforts to have the treaty ratified without amendments.

Senator Lenroot declared he was in favor of a league of nations and asserted that there was much good in the treaty as it now stands. He said most vehemently, however, that he would never vote to destroy the free will of the people of this nation in the matter of making war. He was most outspoken in his declaration that he would never vote for anything that would compel future generations to engage in war against their will. He believes that it is our privilege to decide our domestic questions and not that of any league of nations. The senator was firm in his denunciation of an attempt to submit the Monroe doctrine to any such tribunal as proposed under the league of nations plan. He called the Shantung affair pure robbery.

"I dare not vote to surrender in a peace treaty that which our boys fought and died to preserve," said Senator Lenroot.

That angle of all the discussion seems to be the most important. The people of Wisconsin as well as those of other states do not want to see sacrifices made by our soldiers set aside as naught while other nations of the world maintain all they have struggled for as well as a lot they had handed to them.

President Wilson evidently has forgotten what our men went to France to accomplish. It was the understanding of the American people that the fight was to preserve the democracy of the world. Instead, as the contents of the treaty are revealed, it appears that we were over there to help European powers to get as much as they could and relinquish as many of our safeguards as we could be compelled to, so that we would everlastingly be tied to Europe's apron-strings. As a matter of fact the terms of the treaty give us no confidence. It appears to be a document which would entangle the United States so thoroughly in Europe's mess that we would never be able to extricate ourselves.

The president has put on blinders and cannot see it—either that or he does not want to see it. He appears to have only one vision and that is of himself president of the world. It is to be admitted that the picture is alluring to any individual who can see himself in that light, but how about the remainder of we Americans? Mr. Wilson in his tour of the west has posed as the savior of the world instead of getting right down to brass tacks and showing the people why the treaty should be ratified without reservations. He has shied at the fundamental and practical angles of the document and has woven a fabric of high-sounding words in which he hopes to ensnare those who do think for themselves. His concern seems to be over the world whose "heart may be broken" rather than over the welfare of the United States.

For these reasons Senator Lenroot's upstanding position in regard to the treaty and the league comes as a hopeful sign that the senators whose hearts are with America will fight valiantly for the interests of the United States.

UNCONSCIOUS SAVIORS OF THE ALLIES.

The great mistake of the German government, writes Von Tirpitz, was in following a course of weakness in carrying through its submarine policy.

Thus, after the Lusitania was torpedoed, the imperial government should have boldly declared the legality of the act, and as bravely asserted its intention to keep on with the ruthless slaughter of non-combatants. Its course in seeming to yield consideration to President Wilson's protests was one of weakness and pottroonery, the admiral assures us.

Now clearly, according to Von Tirpitz, if Germany had always insisted upon its right to spill innocent blood over all the seven seas, the war might have resulted differently, because the United States would so have admired and respected the manly boldness of undaunted German ruthlessness that it would never have entered the conflict! How preposterous!

We sometimes wonder why an all-wise Deity ever permitted terrorists like Von Tirpitz to live in this world, and to attain places of power. There must be a deep-lying reason, however, to justify the part such men have in the great general scheme.

Let us suppose that the Germans had passed through Belgium without committing any atrocities. Let us assume that they had never introduced poison gas, nor resorted to the submarine. Their armies would have been just as successful. Then let us recall the collapse of Russia, and remember what would have happened had no barbarians called the United States into war. The ravishers of Belgium, and the slayers of the innocents may have been the unconscious and indirect saviors of France and England after all!

STATE COLLEGES NEEDED FUNDS.

The people of the state are to be acquainted with the pressing financial needs of the voluntarily supported colleges which have been grouped under the name "Wisconsin Colleges Associated," through an educational campaign.

One of the presidents of one of these colleges writes: "My salary is $1,200; the janitor receives $1,000. Probably the janitor is not receiving too much, but how about the president's salary?"

Interest throughout the state is centering upon the plan of the Wisconsin colleges to raise $5,000,000 to be apportioned among Beloit, Campion, Carroll, Lawrence, Milton, Northland and Ripon colleges and Marquette university upon the basis of the number of student hours taught in those institutions. With appreciation of interest and unity of purpose these Catholic and Protestant, denominational and non-denominational colleges have organized to solve their common financial problems.

A yearly payment of $2,000 has been the maximum that the slender budgets of the colleges have been able to allow their teachers. Instructors have been working for sums as low as $700 per year. There has been no appreciable advance in the salaries paid teachers in these colleges for the last five years.

Where the average wages of steel workers in America, for example, have advanced in the last 11 years from $729 to $1,950, an increase of 160 percent, the salaries of the professors in colleges of this state have practically stood still. Most professors in the Wisconsin

Do your best and let it go.
Take the failure and the blow.
Fight to win, but bear the cost.
Say you struggled hard and fast;
Do not whimper or complain,
Do not bitterly explain.
Why your battle went astray—
You may win some other day.

What if hard luck hits at you?
It shall hit your rival, too;
What if all your strength and skill
Seem to fail you? Just keep still.
Shrug your shoulders and keep on
Fighting till all hope is gone;
Stick and see the struggle through—
Luck may turn and favor you.

Breaks against you? Now and then
That's the common fate of men;
Things won't always go your way,
Best of plans have gone astray,
Best of men have met defeat.

Only petty natures wall
When it comes their day to fall.

Do your best and play the game,
Take the loss and bear the blame.

The campaign should be of particular interest to people of Rock county as two colleges, Beloit and Milton, will benefit through a fund to be raised to assure instructors better pay. There is little doubt but that our people will respond generously to the call for funds when it is made.

Get I Was Lucky Catching You Here

Dead Beat and His Baggage

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

New York, Sept. 17.—A month ago, a man of name and grace and gracious manner registered in a large New York hotel. He occupied one of the finest suites to be had, and immediately began to distribute the large-sized tips which created a sensation even among a hotel force that had long since ceased to be surprised at anything. It was finally discovered that this man was a chief stockholder in a big mining company, after which the entire service of the hotel, from the porter to the waiter, was at his disposal, the vulgar matter of charges being taken care of by the cashier. Only one thing marred the enjoyment of the guest and that was the failure of his baggage, containing valuable papers to appear. After a few days, this also began to trouble the management. The hotel clerk who told this story the other morning paused to answer some information for a waiting guest, and then he finally got back to the lost interest in the details. He ended abruptly by saying that before anything could be done the well-dressed man had disappeared, leaving a worn bag, containing a few paltry articles, and a bill of $3,000.

While the majority of New York hotels would not permit the extension of such large credit, it is true that no hotel is altogether immune from the menaces of the deadbeat.

"Every year," says Harry J. Chouche, transportation manager of a large and extremely popular hostelry, "our losses from deadbeat guests amount to thousands of dollars. Through persons who throw themselves on their hospitality and then suddenly disappear, leaving practically worthless baggage, we find them now and then having more trouble with soldiers than with anybody else, and during the war it was much worse. I can't remember how many soldiers men with ranks as high as major and captain—we have been forced to treat to a week in New York. There are not many privileges on our list."

"But you must have some way of protecting yourself?" the visitor suggested.

"Our greatest protection," declared the transportation manager, "is that at least 25 percent of the people are honest. And then we make a department, leaving a baggage department and our floor clerks are instructed to be on the lookout for any suspicious circumstances. For instance, if a guest comes in with more baggage than we think it ought to be we keep a careful watch on him and refuse him credit. We also arrange so that no guest can leave the hotel with his baggage unless we know it."

Naturally, however, the man who can't pay his hotel bill rarely possesses anything of value in his baggage, so that the hotel makes scarcely enough from its sale to defray the expense of handling and disposing of it. Occasionally a drummer is discharged while on the road and leaves a trunkful of samples to pay for his hotel bill.

A drummer from Ireland who came to this country to sell linen goods during the war was compelled to leave a trunkful of samples in a hotel, because his firm suddenly cut off his expenses; but these cases are rare.

On the other hand, baggage stored in hotels and not claimed, can also be sold after 13 months, according to law. Such baggage has greatly increased since the war. The storerooms of not New York hotels alone are filled with trunks and bags left by soldiers who have never returned to claim them, and there is also a lot of baggage left by people who went to Europe before the United States entered the war, and who were then unable to get back.

From time to time the hotels turn this baggage over to their attorneys to be sold at public auction. Harry Livingston, who does the auctioning, has in his room back of his antique shop on Thirty-first street. Twice a month this place is the scene of a mad riot, while speculators and dealers fight for the pieces of luggage. The feature of the sale is that the baggage is sold with absolutely no guarantee that it contains anything of value. In fact, the lack of this guarantee is expressly stated in the ad, which the law provides must be inserted in the newspapers before the sale takes place.

Baggage is Exchanged.
Every piece of baggage is supposed to arrive at the auction room securely fastened, the condition in which was found when the guest vacated. As soon as it is ascertained that a guest has fled without paying his bill, a trusted employee of the hotel is sent to the room, who examines the contents of the baggage—especially letters, papers and even laundry marks—with a view to securing some trace of the guest or culprit. Any information obtained is written out and filed with the man's account. In most cases the man has his trail so well covered that it is impossible to trace him, but when the time for the sale of his property occurs a notice is sent to whatever address is found in his effects.

This seldom results in anything but a waste of postage.

It has been complained by purchasers that much of the baggage is tampered with and many articles belong to a couple of women who to the auction rooms, so most of the higher class hotels now have each trunk and suit case firmly sealed before being removed. The other day there were at least a dozen trunks stacked in the auction room, whose lock had obviously been opened.

"That isn't fair," said Mr. Livingston as he pointed to them one by one. "If all the hotels would adopt the sealing system they'd get more money from the sale."

Besides the piles of trunks and bags there were many musical instruments—one violin case, several mandolins and violins—and miscellaneous articles, such as work baskets, mirrors and even small pieces of furniture.

Back of the hotel kept that cello for three years before it sent it down here," said Mr. Livingston, "hoping that the man would get the money to pay his bill and regain possession of it. The management knew the man—but he never seemed to be able to get a start again."

"See those two trunks there?" he continued, pointing to a couple of becragged steamer trunks. "Those belong to a couple of women who beat two hotels for their rooms and board, and now they're in another one. I just tipped the management that the man would get the money to pay his bill and regain possession of it. The management knew the man—but he never seemed to be able to get a start again."

On the day of the sale a long line of men is always standing in front of the hotel, waiting for the mob as soon as the auction room is opened. They are, with few exceptions, of two classes: speculators, who buy for the purpose of reselling, and second-hand dealers, who count upon securing profitable contents for their push carts. As Mr. Livingston points out, the man who is satisfied with what they get, because the same men are always present at each sale. Each man must deposit $25 upon entering the room, and the surplus over the price of his purchase is returned to him when the sale is over. Some of the dealers are so anxious to examine the contents of the purchases that they rush out without securing this refund, but their forgetfulness is never permanent.

The instances in which articles of great value have been found are so rare that they are regarded as a part of American history among the dealers of the city. One of these occurred when a peddler bought a bag for $5. At first it appeared to contain nothing more valuable than clothes. But upon taking out the garment, shaking it, the dealer was amazed to see a string of pearls fall out. With trembling hands he picked them up, and at once he was the center of a group of excited men, eager to know how much they were worth. As it happened they were worth $5,000. Mr. Livingston is willing to vouch for the veracity of this, because the police were going to arrest the dealer, thinking he had stolen the pearls, and he had to go to court and swear that they had been bought.

Gets Rich Off Trunk.
Another instance was that of a man who bought a trunk, and was surprised to find inside a leather bag containing many pieces of old silver, valued at $100. Mr. Livingston is now educating his family. This, however, happened to be the result of a mistake made by a hotel porter, which eventually cost the hotel $12,000. The couple who owned the silver were living in the hotel at the time, paying their bills, and had given the silver to the porter to store in the hotel's baggage room.

Still another case, which is not so pleasant but lives in the memory of the dealers because of its great dramatic value, was that of a man who opened a suitcase and found therein the corpse of a new born baby. The police were at once notified, but all efforts to locate the owner of the bag proved futile. It was left by a woman who had occupied an expensive suite of rooms, had paid her bill and had gone away, apparently forgetting her suitcase.

Since the price of leather has gone up, the proceeds of these sales of discarded baggage are greater than they used to be. Formerly, the sale opened with a bid of a dime or a quarter; now the bids run from $1 up to $50 or $100. If a dealer gives a hotel man among the purchasers the bidding at once becomes furious, leaping $5 and $10 at a time. Then great is the joy of a purchaser if he gets a bargain, and amazing are his curses if it fails to yield anything of value.

ASK US

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. Will you kindly inform me what the Oster theory is? A. H. M. A. This is an opinion expressed by Dr. William Oster, the noted physician, dealing with the comparative uselessness of men over 40 years of age. Dr. Oster stated his views as follows: "Take the sum of human achievement in action, in science, in art, in literature; subtract the work of the men above 40—we should practically be where we are today."

Q. Is it true that the United States government had to pay the French for the use of the trenches our army used in helping to win the world war? S. B.

A. It is true that in practically all cases where the use of trenches for military use a rental compensation was granted. The United States government also paid for all material and labor used in constructing port warehouses, etc., in France. The amount of compensation was fixed by an agreement between an American commission and the French authorities.

Q. Please tell me the meaning of the word "Azerbaijan"? G. S. A. This is a northwestern and most important province of Persia. It lies between Russia on the north and Turkey on the west.

Q. Please tell me in what states a Catholic priest may be married and be regarded as legally married by the Catholic church? C. C.

A. A Protestant and Roman Catholic can be married legally in any state of the union. If the ceremony is not performed by a Roman Catholic priest, the Catholic person of the contract would not be considered married in the eyes of the Roman Catholic church.

Q. What is the lowest average percentage a discharged soldier can receive in order to be eligible for up-employment in the world service? A. Any discharged soldier who makes an average of 65 percent will be considered eligible for civil service appointment.

Q. What are the chances for Americans getting employment in rebuilding the devastated regions of France? W. S.

A. French construction firms have indicated that they do not need or desire outside help in reconstruction work at the present time.

CAPRI.
The island of Capri has perhaps been the scene of as much of the human drama as any bit of soil of this size in the world. It is a place of contrasts, a place of extremes. For Capri, which has an area of only six square miles, has been the home of emperors, a place visited by the great of all places, and is famous for its beauty all over the world. It always has been and still is the haunt of artists.

Capri is a few miles off the Italian coast and is simply a mountain jutting upward a thousand feet out of the sea. Its white limestone cliffs, crowned with green, and its brilliant blue of the Mediterranean breaking into foam at its feet, give a combination of color, which, under the bright southern sun, is one of the most brilliant in the world. Capri is almost too picturesque. Many find it so and turn away from it. Others are completely captured by the spell of the place; they come to visit and never go away. Many artists have made Capri their home, and a good many have married Capri girls, who seem to have an unusually high average of good looks.

It is said, too, that Capri has a strange effect on many of those who live there. The place is famous for its eccentric characters. The great days of Capri were those when the Emperor Augustus was putting the Roman empire on its feet after the death of Julius Caesar. Augustus chose Capri as his official residence, and so did the Emperor Tiberius after him. After the death of the latter, Capri declined in importance, but not in charm. Capri is known to world tourists from the fame of the beautiful Blue Grotto.

Voice of the People

To the Editor: What is Janesville going to do with the working class? Many of them are paying unreasonable rents for places not fit to live in and being threatened then by avaricious landlords to buy or get out. Can they turn good citizens with their children into the streets? In their greed for gold they seem to forget the brave, noble boys who won this land for them and die as we so could be free from tyranny and injustice. So soon do they forget the many noble boys who gave their lives in every war that have given the best that was in them and suffered hardships no one understands who was not there to see, to free us from tyranny and injustice. Are they who stayed back enjoying life's comforts while our boys fought for them, acting an honorable part by oppressing the working people?

From One Who Knows.

The Wisconsin service commission is considering the erection of a new reserve dam at High Falls on the Peshigo river. The power is utilized in furnishing light for a number of distant cities and the new dam would serve in case of emergency.

BADGER FOOTBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHT; 18 CANDIDATES OUT

Madison, Sept. 17.—One hour of snappy football practice gave 18 Wisconsin gridiron aspirants a real workout at Camp Randall field in the first practice of the season.

It was the largest number of candidates to appear in uniform for the initial tryout in many years, and the number included several of the best men that have played in Badger football during the past few years.

The aggregation substantiated the prediction that Wisconsin's football prospects are brilliant for the 1919 season. The men showed real form in handling the piskin and in the short squad practice that followed.

Team Captain "Chuck" Carpenter arrived yesterday with Coach Richards. Sundt, last year's fullback, weighing 160 pounds, was in uniform yesterday and participated in the practice.

"Red" Weston, a 1917 star end, Smith, a brilliant half on the 1918 eleven, and "Bert" Collins, a 1917 center, were also in uniform.

In 1917, Gibson, a veteran Badger fullback, "Shorty" Barry, last year's quarter, MacMurray, of the 1918 freshman team, "Bill" Collins, 1918 end, Paul Van Ghent, a new aspirant, Herb Stolte, Will Pickard, G. W. Hinton, Bunge, center on the 1917 frosh squad, Gordon Shorney, one of the 1917 freshman team, James MunGaven, Will Matthei, Phil Kerwin and Albert Melner, are the candidates who showed up in togs last night.

More This Week

Other veterans expected this week are Scott, Kluskofer, Muroles, Bondi, Mann, Elliott, Pladoes, Sivory, Blatter, Olson, Mann, Barber, Jacob, Orr, Weeks, Reed, Sponholz, Stark, and Gray. Herb Crumpton is in the city, reporting for eligibility yesterday, and will be out on the field this afternoon.

Paul Meyers will report later, but is still enmeshed in the military machine and may not arrive before next week.

Enthusiasm and "pop" was the chief feature of last night's workout. After an hour's drill, Coach Jones divided the men into two squads, working bare and away at quarterbacks. Sundt and Gibson are fullbacks. Bunge and Stolte as centers, MacMurray at guard, Shorney and Weston at the end positions and Smith and Collins in the backfield.

FAIRIES MEET CUBS THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Fifty Janesville fans will journey to Beloit Thursday afternoon to see the Chicago Cubs hook up in an exhibition game with the Fairbanks Norse nine at Morse field. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

Grover Cleveland Alexander will pitch for the Cubs, the management surmises. The Fairies will probably have Bunny Hearn on the slab to quell the onslaughts of the Deal Killers.

With this tilt nearly over, Fairy fans are beginning to turn their attention to the next big battle of the year—that to be played against an all-star Janesville team at the Welcome Home celebration, October 8. The Fairies understand that there are dark and mysterious rumors about that moth-eaten leather series will be raided to get together a Janesville team for that game. "Watchful waiting" may prove them right.

A number of private individuals are getting together to raise the finances for the Overseas Expedition by personal subscription. Among the names under consideration for the team are Bobby Jones, the youthful Atlanta star, Chick Evans, Francis Olmstead, and others.

$10,000 FOR SNUFF BOX

London.—Admiral Sir Edward Barry's gold snuff box, painted with the Battle of the Nile, and valued at $10,000, was sold at a sale.

REAL GOLF BUGS

New York.—Golf bugs, resembling the beetle in appearance, are being used on a number of links in the east. The bugs are turned loose by the groundkeepers on the edge of the putting greens. They burrow underneath the sod without making the greens rough and kill the worms, which are the bane of the existence of golfers.

Two Young Hurlers May Gain Fame In Big Series

Adolpho Leque, in action, and Jimmy Ring.

By N. E. BROWN.

Boy, page Mr. Adolpho Leque and Mr. James Ring—and, boy, tell them to get all dolled up ready to enter the hall of fame if they get the chance.

For the chance, Leque and Ring, the two young hurlers who have contributed a goodly number of victories in the Reds' climb, find in general probably wouldn't worry much about the main cause in the lives of the pair if the Reds had pulled the usual ace and fished in mid-season. But now Leque and Ring may be called upon to stem the White Sox attack in a world series.

According to the best dope at hand Leque was born in Havana, Cuba, in 1890, August 1, to a family that played amateur and semi-pro ball around the island until the 1912 season. Then he came to the U. S. and played with a crack Cuban team at Long Branch, N. J., for two seasons. The Braves hooked onto him in 1914, but turned him out to Jersey City. The next spring the Braves called him in, only to farm him out to Toronto. In 1916 he went to the Louisville A. A. club. He played there until the Reds bought him in August last year.

He is a capable relief hurler because of his perfect control, and has finished many games for the Reds after the start of the season.

Jimmy Ring is a Brooklyn boy, born there in 1895. (Hey, Jim, send us the date of your birth and a little more dope about you.)

Brooklyn, I believe, signed him up first and sent him to Lowell in the New England league. He was with the Yankees in 1914 and remained with them until sent to Jersey City in June, 1915. The next year he played with Utica. In 1917 the Reds obtained him and sent him to Buffalo. The opening of the 1918 season found him with Chattanooga, but Cincinnati recalled him in June and he has been with them ever since.

Cincinnati sport scribes are touting him as one of the best young right-handers in the league.

Both hurlers have made enviable records this season. Leque has won ten games—or better by this time—and between them have lost less than ten.

BY JACK KEENE.

Poll Perritt, upon whom waivers have been received by the Giants and who has John McGraw's permission to play, will, this season, be a major league pitcher has not come to an end—and he looks forward to regaining his berth as a Giant regular next spring.

"The muscles in my right arm have bothered me ever since I came north," said Poll recently, "and I think the trouble can be traced to two colds contracted in the arm. The day I reported the club was playing in Brooklyn. It was a raw, chilly day and I rode back to New York in an automobile. I didn't have an overcoat on and my arm pained me considerably that night. Then western trip I started a game, but didn't have anything and was taken out in the first inning. I was so sore at myself that I sat on the bench for the remainder of the game cursing and forgot to put on a sweater. Again my arm pained me for several days and it hasn't been much good since."

"However, I haven't lost hope of making a comeback," and McGraw has agreed to give me another trial at the training camp next spring. I'm sure I'll make good there, and I'm also sure that you'll see old Poll winning a few games for the Giants next season."

Announcement was made recently of Yale's resident football coaching staff for the 1919 season. It will be composed as follows:

Dr. Sharpe will assume his duties as practically Yale athletic director in about two weeks. He has been at Cornell for several seasons. He was graduated from Yale in 1905, having played on six athletic teams—football, baseball, basketball, rowing, gymnastic and wrestling.

Manager McGraw evidently intends to experiment a lot with new infield material. He obtained Jimmy Cooney, shortstop of the Providence Eastern league club, two weeks ago and ordered him to report immediately. Young Cooney has been attracting attention for more than two years while progressing in minor league company. The Red Sox had him last spring, but turned him over to the Tigers, who had no place for him. So Cooney went back to Providence and has played a sensational ball all season. Cooney, by the way, is the son of the once famous Jimmy Cooney who played shortstop for the Chicago Cubs under Captain Anson twenty-five years ago. Maybe the boy is a chip of the old block. If so, he'll do!

New Orleans racing circles are interested in the movement which has been inaugurated to add importance to next winter's racing season there by re-establishing the famous Crescent City Derby. It has been suggested that, in order to draw the best class of horses and horsemen, the Louisiana Jockey Club should offer a $10,000 stake to be run the last day of the season—or Carnival day. A $10,000 derby for three-year-olds at a mile and a furlong would be sure to attract many highly-rated candidates, as it has been proved winter racing does not take the edge off horses.

Omar Khayyam was wintered in New Orleans the year he won the Derby. He wasn't raced, but was make 103 pounds ringside with any opponent who may be selected. He weighed, it is said, 104 pounds in his bout with Pat Moore in England.
